Dear Ruoyu Wang:

On behalf of the School of Information Science and Technology of ShanghaiTech, I wish to express my sincere gratitude to you for serving as a volunteer staff member of ShanghaiTech Symposium on Information Science and Technology 2018 (SSIST'2018).

SSIST is an international forum that features fundamental research developments and groundbreaking technologies in the areas of electrical engineering, computer sciences, and computational mathematics. Each year, the Symposium invites some of the most renowned researchers in the world from both academia and industry to present their latest research work and to discuss future research directions. The Symposium aims to bring the state of the art research and industrial technologies to young faculty and graduate students in China.

Thank you for your selfless work and service to our school. Please allow me to thank you with the signed letter as a token of appreciation for your great efforts and performance. Thank you so much.

Sincerely yours.
